Parrots Class Newsletter 20.01.17

Good morning all. I hope everyone is well. The past two weeks in Parrots class have been great. There has been some great work produced and a lot of great behaviour from all of the pupils. This term usually offers a good chance to get some work done and it seems to be going that way this year.

Topic

We have been looking at cold climates in detail this week. We have focussed all of the work in class on Antarctica. Science has involved heating and melting of ice, geography and history sessions have covered the location and climate of Antarctica and in Numeracy we have linked work on measuring to the Topic.

Literacy

We have done a lot of writing this week about Antarctica and

Phonics/ Literacy

This week we are going to be looking at the sh sound and pupils will be writing factual information about Antarctica.

Date for the diary.

Tuesday the 31st of January is parent's evening. There will be letters coming home to you regarding timeslots.

Let's hope for a great week!

Best wishes
Alistair Moger
