The sun has got his hat on hip hip hooray! 16.6.17

We have had a busy week and lots of new faces in our staff team due to staff illness.

On Monday we made cornflake gluten /dairy free biscuits with one group following instructions and the other group exploring the texture and sensory nature of crushing cornflakes, sieving flour and squishing mixture in hands!

Tuesday and more mini beast action in science—starring a host of wiggly worms (at the bottom of the garden !!!) which we watched and looked at through the magnifiers. Jaxon and Rhiannon were quite sure they didn't want to feel the worm on their hand. It was exceptionally hot in the classroom in the afternoon so we had some extra water play to cool down.

The highlight of our Attention Sounds session was the children making / rrrrrr/ sounds with a microphone for a roaring lion mask. They have also been

Rhiannon making a spider painting

Keen to watch the ribbon stick making patterns...lots of R words. Rossi and Owen were particularly vocal. In At we repeated the skill from last week of printing with balloons to make lots of spiders...also practicing making straight lines too...we think artistic license is ok for the number of legs! In Maths we carried on practicing counting as we dropped pennies in the bucket of water before matching coins to pay for a small snack. PE was fun....anticipating and throwing balls or rolling over under large balls This morning as part of our story we shall be putting the eggs and caterpillars into the butterfly house and will be feeding them each day with things we buy at Budgens. Butterflies by end of term fingers crossed.

What I have been hearing about:

School is planning a whole school trip to Longleat on 11th July. More details and letter to follow. Children will need packed lunches on this day—just giving you advanced notice.

Wows this week for: Olu for reading his symbol strip, listening to the adult and following an instruction several times brilliantly. Millie for fabulous focus and engagement in her art lesson and looking to where the adult pointed to put the paint next. Rhiannon for putting the paint exactly where it needed to go each time in her spider painting.

STAR OF THE WEEK: Richard for vastly improved behaviour and communication. Well done Richard!
