Penguins Newsletter

DAN MATTRAVIS—TEACHER

- Dates for your diary:
- Monday: Swimming, singing assembly and weekend news
- Tuesday: Yoga and maths in the morning and art/cookery with Sheila in the afternoon
- Tuesday: Dan PPA
- Wednesday: Communication, Larcpack, sensory room and literacy
- Thursday: Soft play for some and shopping for others. Science and Larcpack in the afternoon
- Friday: Our community visit, with this term being Fairfield College. If any parents would like to join us for a cup of tea you'd be more than welcome!

Wishing you an excellent holiday!

Dan, Jo, Jess, Tash, Amie, Alex, Yasemin and Adi

Don't forget to keep checking our school website for lots of info and links to useful sites.

Woooaaahhh, we're half way there 25/1/2019

Can I just throw it out there that January is the longest month evvveerrrrrrr? Who knew one month could have approximately 765 days?! But never mind, we have made it! The mornings are getting brighter and the days are getting longer! Don''t know about you, but I find this time of year to be pretty rubbish, especially for walking to the shops!

Anyway, on to your weekly update! Swimming was as successful as ever with some excellent work an d engagement taking place. We are working really hard towards our swimming targets and aren't at all bothered by the cold! Our behaviour on the bus to and from swimming is also second to none! Monday afternoon was weekend news reading, singing with instruments and relaxing music.

Tuesday morning was a little bit different because I was observing a child in another class. The staff taught yoga and maths in my absence and it went very well. Sheila taught art and cooking in the afternoon, perfecting the art of making parsnip and vegetable crisps! I tried them and confirm Millie is our Penguin of the week for excellent engagement and participation in all sessions! Well done Millie!

That they are amazing! Sheila used onion salt for the seasoning and I will absolutely be buying some over the weekend!

Wednesday was communication and larkpack in the morning followed by sensory room and literacty in the afternoon! For literacy, we are doing the story of 'The Gingerbread Man' and really focusing on the repetition and key words so that we can begin to sequence them ourselves. Thursday was an excellent trip to the shop and great science in the afternoon...we had to scrap Larcpack because we were so engrossed!

Friday was out trip to the café followed by P.E, choosing and reward assembly. Have a fabulous weekend!
Dan

What I have been hearing about ...

A reminder to parents/carers that to receive any online communications from school we must have your up-to-date e-mail address. Please remember to let school office have any updated e-mail addresses or changes. Thank you.