

21st June 2019

Hello again!

We have been star gazing in Robins this week. We had an inflatable planetarium come and visit us, and it was amazing! It was like having the entire universe in our school hall. All of the children loved it – they got to see stars and planets wheeling around the night sky. It was absolutely beautiful and it created a real sense of awe and wonder. Amazing.

As well as appreciating the wonders of the Universe, we have also been cooking up some pretty wondrous treats. As we are thinking about Pirates this term, we made some 'delicious' canon ball truffles from mashed banana, digestive biscuits and chocolate spread that we rolled in sprinkles! They were great fun and very easy to make – we simply mashed a bit of banana, crushed some biscuits and mixed it with some chocolate spread, mixed it all together, broke off little chunks, and then rolled them in sprinkles. Easy!

And the fun continues next week as it is Sports and Well Being Week at Larkrise! There is going to be a bouncy castle, some soft play equipment, a harpist, and a whole host of other fun time opportunities. There is even a chance for mummies and daddies to sign up for a free and fun cooking session, in the food tech room, here at school – so sign up and make dinner for free!

Robins Class is also signed up for a Sensory Art session next Thursday afternoon with our Artist in Residence, Becky. Please send in some old clothes for your child to wear on that day, as I am never quite sure how messy things might get! 😊

Basically, it's all happening next week! And don't forget that we are also fitting in a TD Day next Wednesday (26th June) so the school will be closed to students on that day. It's definitely going to be a busy week!

Have a great weekend!

Rachel 😊
