Well done Rossi—a fabulous week!

20.1.17

This week we particularly celebrate Rossi who had a great swim right around the pool area and then did a super job in cookery and loved the broccoli and cheese rissoles we made.

Other things we have loved seeing this week are:

Millie: huge smiles and giggles of anticipation in attention autism and PE ( walking along benches and jumping onto a big crash mat.)

Richard: fabulous reading including saying quack quack or the duck in the story. Wow!

Owen: continuing great communication using a symbol board and now increasingly clear words.- toilet, more, ready steady go, hello, goodbye

Jaxon: For participating in lessons so well...your roar in our dinosaur story was realistic

Rhiannon: great larkpack session and reading symbolized sentences in her books.

Olu: continued progress with using the toilet.

It was rosettes all round at our last riding too.

We were practicing our cutting skills in cookery by cutting up part cooked broccoli ( and have tasted it raw in snacktime too). Perhaps you fancy making the recipe...it was pretty popular!

Chop cooked broccoli and mix with some breadcrumb ( gluten free or not) and some cheese ( lactose free or normal)- combine with egg and put spoonfuls into a greased muffin tin. Oven 180 for 15 minutes. Eat while hot or cold.

When we introduce new things on the snack menu we usually refer to it with the symbol surprise...lovely to see children try new things.

What I have been hearing about ...

News from our fundraising activities you have supported recently:
