Finches newsletter

Happy birthday Reece! 6th September 2018

14 years old today!

Welcome back to the new school year—it's been so lovely seeing all our young people again and hearing about their adventures and achievements over the summer break.

Our new theme is Ourselves and timetables and areas of work we will do are stuck in your home: school books and emailed to you.

So just 2 days to report on so far but 2 great days! I'm proud of our youngsters who struggle with change who have excelled themselves in coping with the start of the week being a Wednesday and then doing news on a Wednesday and then also no soft play. The highlight of Wednesday was the astounding focus, attention and enjoyment in our Attention Art lesson... It was focused on hands and drawing but we had so much fun with hands and so much mess.

SORRY NO ONLINE PICTURES UNTIL MEDIA PERMISSIONS RECEIVED

Thursday—Maths was sensory based as all the class were there and the staff team are really happy to do anything like dress up strangely or be melodramatic acting to get results and our strangely dressed goal keepers certainly got everyone's attention and counting as goals were scored. In the literacy lesson we put on wigs and funny glasses and looked at our faces in the mirror in detail "No I don't look like that ...I've got brown curly hair "...etc See photos overleaf.

In cooking we made orangeade, ice cream floats much to Rossi's approval. This week we celebrate: . Everyone has got a wow on the wow board .

STARS OF THE WEEK : Brandon for coping so well with change this week and adapting easily. Rhiannon for brilliant progress with personal skills. Wowzer!

What I have been hearing about ...

Rhiannon's Mum would recommend The Thomas Centre for a holiday having just returned from a great time there with Rhiannon. I've had a quick look and think I may have mentioned it in this newsletter a few years ago, but it does look great.
